Choose your own adventure.

Expect many paths to choose from and a wide array of courses in literature and writing: rich fare for mind, heart and soul.

We will help you outfit yourself with provisions and the skills you will need:

- How to sharpen your intellect for the literary trail, enabling you to comprehend, assess and appreciate life's complexity
- How to read maps and theory with acumen and imagination, maps that will guide you through the terrain
- How to interpret and use the cultural codes and conventions of your time in history, and others
- How to cross borders and learn from the diversity that you encounter
- How to speak your truth while sharing your discoveries with fellow explorers, always loving language for its potential to express nuance and beauty
- How to report on your journeying in pellucid prose or verse: clearly, coherently, artfully
- How to synergize creatively with others in using what you have learned to transform the world

The results? Once you complete your Guilford journey as an English major, you'll have prepared yourself for an equally wide set of life paths with your new expertise — especially in critical thinking, empathy, tolerance for ambiguity, communication — expertise that can serve as a universal key to the professions.

And those who know you will appreciate you for the thoughtfulness, creativity and richness of the inner life you'll have cultivated, traits you will carry forward as a lifelong learner and change agent.

ENGL 101. Writing Seminar. 4.
Focuses on active reading comprehension strategies. Students examine claims, evidence, and rhetorical strategies, and learn to write for specific audiences and purposes in genres that value their own experiences and observations as evidence. They develop strategies for improving sentence and paragraph structure, revision and editing practices, collaboration with other writers, reflection on their own writing processes, and understanding of how others’ ideas are used and attributed in different writing contexts. Minimum grade to move on to ENGL 102: C-. Fulfills English 101 requirement (2019).

ENGL 102. College Reading and Writing: Many Voices. 4.
Gives students practice in reading and analyzing texts in a variety of genres and disciplines and in listening to the voices of authors from diverse backgrounds who represent a wide range of experiences and identities. Students learn to examine the contexts within which written communication takes place and craft their own communication in genres that value the use of multiple and credible sources. This course also builds students’ skills in research, genre-appropriate conventions of documentation and citation, organization and sentence structure, and revision and editing strategies. Normally required in first year. Fulfills College Reading and Writing Requirement (1998). English 102 requirement (2019).

ENGL 141. Intermediate Composition. 4.
This course is for students who wish to reinforce the academic reading, writing and thinking skills introduced in ENGL 101 and ENGL 102. Emphasizing analysis, persuasion and revision, it builds on basic knowledge of academic writing conventions and strengthens students’ ability to compose clear, concise and coherent prose in the writing situations they face in other courses and beyond college. The course also includes significant research.

ENGL 150. Special Topics. 1-8.
May also be offered at 250, 350 and 450 levels.

ENGL 151. Historical Perspectives (Variable Title). 4.

In-class critiques of student writing, reviews of contemporary literary magazines and short story collections, craft discussions with visiting writers, evolution of critical principles, manuscript preparation. Prerequisite: ENGL 102, Historical Perspectives, and ENGL 207 or instructor permission.

Explores the methodology of script analysis used by actors, designers and directors as they prepare to execute a stage production. Techniques at the heart of the course lay the foundation for thoughtful understanding of literature and perceptive creativity in productions that effectively serve a text. Students also develop the interpretive skills needed by artists working in a theatre that responds to and addresses issues of oppression and social justice. Prerequisite: ENGL 102 and Historical Perspectives. Fulfills humanities and social justice/environmental responsibility requirements (1998). Arts/humanities and evaluating systems and environments requirements (2019).

ENGL 223. Shakespeare. 4.
General introduction to the comedies, histories and/or tragedies.

The American mind in literature from the Puritans to the Civil War.

The American literary tradition from the Civil War to the present.

Examines literary nature writing in America from the 19th century to the present, with a primary focus on the different ways writers have presented the natural world as sacred. Writings consider both individuals' current estrangement from the natural world and possibilities for developing intimacy with the earth through a deep sense of "place." Prerequisite: ENGL 102. Fulfills humanities and social justice/ environmental responsibility requirements (1998). Arts/humanities and evaluating systems and environments requirements (2019).
