

INTEGRATIVE STUDIES (ITGR)

Lisa McLeod, Professor of Philosophy, Integrative Studies Chair

The integrative studies major allows students to design their own interdisciplinary major in a way that integrates several fields and disciplines. This opportunity reflects Guilford's emphasis on the interdisciplinary character of learning, the Quaker recognition of the unique gifts of each person, and the Quaker emphasis on the responsibility of each person in the search for truth.

This major requires an investment of creative and organizational work by both the student and their faculty advisors that regularly offered majors do not require. It is suitable only for self-directed students who are actively involved in their education and able to work well on their own. To be eligible for this program, a student must have a cumulative Guilford G.P.A. of 3.25 or higher.
